PREFACE

In the year 2016, the Commission continued to build on its past achievements. The UNHCR and NHRC Protection Monitoring Project which began in 2015, was reviewed and the number of monitors were increased in order to escalate monitoring of the violations faced by IDPs and the affected communities as a result of the insurgency in the North East. Monitors were strengthened with tools to ensure a protective environment. Training activities were also held for relevant actors on human rights standards in the management of IDPs.

In the year under review, the Commission in partnership with development partners and NGOs embarked on a lot of activities geared towards the promotion and protection of human rights. Some of the major activities were- Training of Military Personnel and Students of Army Ordinance School Ojo, Lagos, NHRC/Nigeria Military Dialogue on Human Rights, Launch and Public Presentation of the ‘End Electoral Impunity’ 2007/2011 Report, Audit of Prisons and Police Detention Centres, Training on International Humanitarian Law (IHL), NHRC Rules of Procedure & Complaints Treatment Skills, Legal Clinic on Unlawful Arrest and Detention, amongst others.

In line with its mandate to monitor, promote and protect the rights of Nigerians, the Commission held some public inquiries such as that on the clash between the Nigerian Army and Islamic Movement of Nigeria (Shiites) in Zaria, Kaduna State. As a result of increasing trend of complaints received from affected communities on Oil Spills and Environmental Pollution in Edo, Delta, Cross River, Rivers and Bayelsa States, the Commission set – up a panel of inquiry to investigate the complaints on oil spill and environmental pollution. However, pending court cases by the alleged violators, challenging the powers of the Commission to constitute such a panel stalled progress of the panel. The outcome of the court cases would provide opportunity for the Commission to demonstrate her powers to deal with all cases relating to human rights as well as seek appropriate on behalf of victims.
The Special Investigative Panel on Alleged Killings by the Military in Tarok communities of Plateau and Benue States is still ongoing. Concluding sittings have been scheduled after which the report and recommendations would follow.

In the year under review, the Commission in order to enhance public awareness intensified its media activities and human rights education, through advocacy visits and courtesy calls to relevant stakeholders, as well as engaged the print and electronic media on a more robust reporting strategy such as advocacy visit to the Commission by Maud De Boer Buquicchio, UN Special Rapporteur on the sale of Children, Child Pornography and Child Prostitution, visit by Director Nigeria Air Force Directorate of Civil Military Relations Air Commodore Afam Chukwu, visit on the Executive Governor of Plateau State by NHRC Delegation led by the Executive Secretary amongst others.

The Commemoration of the 2016 International Human Rights Day was marked with a Road Walk in Abuja as well as in the zonal and state offices of the Commission. The Theme of the celebrations was “Stand Up For Someone’s Right Today”.

In 2016, the sum of One Billion, Two Hundred and Ten Million Naira was released for the Commission’s programmes/activities by the Government. There were also funding support from some development partners for specific activities, such as Ford Foundation supported project on End Electoral Impunity Project titled’ Fair Trial and the Right to Effective Participation in Government – An Independent Review of Evidence of Violation of the Rights to participate in Government and Fair Trial Through the Election of petition Process in Nigeria, Open Society Initiative for West Africa(OSIWA) supported training of staff on NHRC Rules of Procedure & Complaints Treatment Skills among others.

On the 8th of December 2016, the 5 year term of Prof. Bem Angwe as Executive Secretary of the Commission came to an end, and the Secretary to the Government of the Federal, directed the most Senior Director in the Commission, to take charge of the Commission until the President appoints a Substantive Executive Secretary for the Commission. Mrs. Oti Anukpe Ovrawah, Director, Human Rights Institute took charge of the affairs of the Commission on the 8th of December, 2016.

The year 2016 was challenging but the Commission was able to record some major milestones in the promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This Annual Report is pursuant to Section 17 of the National Human Rights Commission (Amendment) Act which obligates the National Human Rights Commission to, not later than 6 months after the end of each year; submit to the President and the National Assembly, a report on the activities of the Commission. The report contains Nine Chapters enumerating some key activities of the Commission.

The establishment of the Commission aims at promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights in Nigeria, as well as creating an enabling environment for extra judicial recognition and advancement of human rights as enshrined in the 1999 Constitution of the Federal Republic of Nigeria, the African Charter on Human and people’s Rights and other International human instruments to which Nigeria is a party. The functions and mandate of NHRC to promote, protect and enforce human rights are realized through the operations of the Commission’s various departments and units.

Chapter one of this report highlights the mandate, structure, powers and functions of the Commission, as well as the departments and units of the Commission in 2016.

Chapter Two focuses on collaborative engagements between the National Human Rights Commission and other organizations. In order to realize improved human rights standards in Nigeria, the need for multi-sectoral collaboration need not be over emphasized. Accordingly, for effective discharge of her mandate, the Commission partners with local and international organizations working in the area of the promotion and protection of human rights. This includes various Community and Faith Based Organizations as well as other Civil Society Organizations, Ministries, Departments and Agencies of Government, as well as the Diplomatic Community.

In the year under review, the NHRC carried out a number of media activities, paid courtesy calls, as well as paid advocacy visits to relevant stakeholders in order to enhance public awareness about the Commission and her work. Chapter three of this report focuses on such Media Activities, courtesy calls and advocacy visits aimed at enhanced human rights promotion in Nigeria.

Chapter Four of the report throws light on Promotional and Outreach activities carried out by the National Human Rights Commission in the year under review. In order to increase visibility and accessibility to the Commission, various promotional and outreach activities were carried out in 2016 in the course of discharging the Commission’s mandate. Such activities include: briefings on the Nigeria Army / Islamic Movement (Shittes) Clash in Zaria, Kaduna State, Meetings with Inter – Agency Committee on Internally Displaced Persons in the Federal Capital Territory, Inauguration of a Committee on Oil Spillage and Environmental Pollution in the Niger Delta to carry out on-the spot assessment of human rights impact of such spillages and related environmental violations. The Chapter highlights many more promotional and outreach activities.

Chapter Five illustrates the Commission’s International Engagements. Nigeria is a member of various regional and international bodies such as United Nations, African Union and ECOWAS; and participates in the activities of these bodies. The National Human Rights Commission therefore participates in international trainings, workshops and conferences in line with provisions of Section 5(h) of the NHRC Amendment Act (2010) which obligates her to partake in such manner as deemed appropriate. Participation in such fora aims at building the capacity of employees in the promotion, protection and enforcement of human rights through application of knowledge and skills acquired in discharging the Commission’s mandate.

On commencement of operations by the National Human Rights Commission in 1997, the Commission had six Zonal Offices. These offices were located in each of the six geo-political zones of Nigeria as follows:

- North East – Maiduguri
- North West – Kano
- North Central – Jos
- North West – Lagos
The six zonal offices at inception were however deemed inadequate because each zone comprises of at least five states. Many people at the communities in various parts of the country in need of the Commission’s services could not access such services due to challenge of distance between the states and the zonal office locations. There was therefore the necessity to create more offices in order to increase visibility and accessibility of the Commission’s services to all persons in Nigeria. Therefore, more offices were created across the six zones of the federation. Currently, the Commission has 23 zonal and state field offices. Notwithstanding the increase in the number of operational offices, the Commission acknowledges the imperative of establishing more field offices in Local Government Areas. The NHRC looks forward to further increase in the number of field offices especially as visibility and accessibility are important yardsticks set by the Paris Principles for measuring effectiveness of National Human Rights Institutions. The desirable increase in the number of field offices of the Commission is however subject to availability of funds. The Commission is therefore hopeful that increased funding and partnerships would improve visibility and accessibility of her services to many more persons in Nigeria. Activities of the National Human Rights Commission in 2016, disaggregated across the existing 23 Field Offices, are captured in Chapter Six of this report.

Chapter Seven of the 2016 Annual Report of the commission is dedicated to ‘Human Rights Protection and Complaints Management’ Mechanism of the Commission. In consonance with Section 6(j) of the National Human Rights Commission Act 1995 as amended, the Commission receives and investigates complaints of alleged violations of human rights and makes appropriate determination as may be deemed necessary based on facts of each case. In discharging this task, the Commission receives and treats complaints on human rights violations or abuses from individuals, group of persons, or communities for redress. Besides receiving complaints from the public, the Commission also proactively takes up investigation of cases of human rights violations/ abuses on its own (Suo Moto) and is empowered to make enforceable awards based on her findings.

It is noteworthy that not all complaints received are admissible in the Commission. Accordingly, the standard guidelines for the management of all complaints received by the Commission are contained in relevant sections of NHRC Standing Order and Rules of Procedure (STORP) adopted by the Governing Council of the Commission in 2013. All complaints received by the Commission are subjected to the Admissibility Test to ascertain their admissibility or inadmissibility. The admissible complaints are assigned to investigation officers for further investigation and treatment for appropriate redress while inadmissible complaints may be referred to relevant agencies for consideration.

The Commission received a total of One Million and Ninety Nine Thousand, Nine Hundred and Nineteen (1,099,919) Complaints in 2016. One Million, Four Hundred and Thirty (1,000,430) were admissible complaints while Ninety Nine Thousand, Four Hundred and Eighty Nine complaints were inadmissible. Out of this number of received complaints, Four Hundred and Eighty Nine Thousand, Two Hundred and Nineteen (489,219) have been concluded while Five Hundred and Eleven Thousand, Two Hundred and Eleven (511,211) complaints are pending. This chapter of the report provides more details on management of complaints in the year under review.

Chapter 8 of the report throws light on activities carried out by the UNHCR / NHRC in furtherance of the Protection Monitoring Project in some of the project States: Adamawa, Bauchi, Benue, Gombe, Taraba and Yobe.

In 2015, United Nations High Commission for Refugees (UNHCR) and National Human Rights Commission commenced Protection Monitoring in the North – East, North – Central, and Federal Capital Territory (FCT). The states in these zones are affected by heavy fighting between Boko Haram sect and Nigerian Military. The affected core ten states include Bauchi, Borno, Gombe, Taraba, Yobe, Adamawa, Benue, Nasarawa, Jos, and Federal Capital Territory (FCT). This project was initiated in the context of Protection Sector Working Group Strategy (PSWGS) under the co – Leadership of NHRC and UNHCR. The overall goal of the project was to gain a first hand , comprehensive and reliable picture of protection issues, such as security from violence and exploitation, while increasing the self – reliance of most vulnerable and displaced families by providing Protection Monitoring in the camps . Security and Protection Monitoring both identify and strengthen community-based protection mechanisms in order to get a complete picture of protection issues in order to be able to quickly respond to such issues and improve advocacy on the rights of IDPs. Protection Monitoring further involves the time-sensitive reporting of individual protection cases through an alert system for rapid response to cases of human rights abuses. As a follow up on the project, both organizations evaluated the project implementation so far and agreed on the need to improve on the project in 2016. Further Protection Monitoring activities were therefore identified for implementation in 2016 aimed at consolidating the gains realized on the project since commencement in 2015 such as to timely identify critical protection needs and to reduce risks and abuses as well as to ensure prompt response and prevention of further deterioration of humanitarian and human rights standards in the project State.

Chapter 9 of the report focuses on the Financial Report of the Commission and reflects the Commission’s finances in the year under review. Notably the major source of funding of the National Human Rights Commission has been the Federal Government, with some support from Development Partners. The NHRC Amendment Act provides that the funds of the Commission be charged to the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the Federation. While acknowledging some improvement in funding for the NHRC, it is however noteworthy to remark that the Commission is still faced with funding gaps and challenges in the course of carrying out various activities. Considering the fact that many activities carried out by the Commission are capital intensive requiring huge funding, the need for further improved funding becomes imperative - for timely and effective discharge of her mandate.

CHAPTER ONE

1.0 MANDATE AND STRUCTURE

The World Conference on Human Rights, in 1993, institutionalized the roles of National Human Rights Institutions with the aim of promoting and protecting human rights. The World Conference, though advisory in nature, noted the importance of NHRI’s and their roles of remedying human rights violations, and disseminating of human rights information and education.

The Commission was established by the National Human Rights Commission Act 1995 but began operations in 1996. This Act was reviewed due to some inadequacies and amended in 2010 through an Act of the parliament. The NHRC team was received by ACP Okon Okon - Assistant Commissioner of Police - in Charge of Criminal Investigation Departments.

The following were some of the observations of the NHRC Monitoring team:

THE CELLS:

The lock up at time of the visit was 180 inmates. There were six cells, three on both sides of the facility. Five cells were for the male suspects while one cell was for female detainees. However, at the time of the visit there were no female detainees or minors. It was discovered that besides the six cells, they had two smaller cells reserved for detained personnel who were involved in crime and are undergoing investigations such as Police Officers, military and paramilitary officers amongst others. At the time of visit, the cells were well ventilated and in good condition. There were however inadequate beddings and blankets. Out of the six cells only four were occupied. Each cell had over twenty detainees with some lying on the bare floor.

Secondly, to share International Minimum Standards for the Treatment of Detainees as recommended. Mr. Ojukwu further stated that the Commission was not there to condemn but rather to interact with them on way forward. He advised them that Pre-trial Detention should be the last resort. Similarly, he reminded them that the Inspector General of Police emphasizes on thorough investigation of suspects before detention. He emphasized that the Commission will support a system where laid down principles and procedures are complied with and that officers should comply human rights standards in handling suspects and detainees.

Furthermore, the Director also commented on the need to allow suspects have access to their families and lawyers. He reminded them of the constitutional presumption of innocence of accused persons until proven guilty by a competent court.

In addition he observed that places of detention should be gazetted and that there should be classification of inmates in line with international best practices. He also mentioned that the Nigerian Constitution specifies the time limit for which a suspect should be detained and charged to court. He encouraged them to always adhere to these standards.

ACP Okon Okon, in his response stated that the Nigerian Red Cross Society has been of assistance providing beddings, blankets, drugs, uniforms amongst others. He further stated that they had three categories of suspects namely, Homicide, Car theft, and Armed Robbery. He stressed that SARS tries to adhere to the rules.

GENERAL RECOMMENDATIONS

Some of the recommendations were as follows:

- Suspects should not be deprived of access to justice. They should be assisted with legal representation for fair hearing. NBA, Legal Aid Council and other stakeholders should work in synergy to see that there is speedy access to justice regularly.

- Periodic visits should be carried out by the judges in collaboration with NBA, Legal Aid Council and other relevant stakeholders. Also, more courts should be established and judges deployed in order to speed up the cases to decongest the cells.
- Alternative Dispute Resolution Mechanism should be encouraged in order to reduce the work load of Judges.

CHAPTER SEVEN
HUMAN RIGHTS PROTECTION AND COMPLAINTS MANAGEMENT

7.0 INTRODUCTION

Section 6(j) of the National Human Rights Commission Act 1995 as amended, enjoined the Commission to “receive and investigate complaints concerning violations of human rights and make appropriate determination as may be deemed necessary in each circumstances”. In pursuance to the above, the Commission receives and treats complaints on human rights violations/abuses from individuals, group of persons, corporate organizations amongst others in order to protect the rights of the victims. It is imperative to note that the Commission proactively takes up investigation on cases of human rights violations/abuses on its own (Suo Moto) in order to protect the rights of the people.

However, the Commission administers and treats only complaints with human rights issues. Complaints without human rights issues are classified as inadmissible and thus referred to relevant agencies with the mandate to handle such complaints for intervention. The protection and Investigation Department of the Commission is saddled with the responsibility to handle complaints in the Commission.

This chapter of the report deals with the receipt and management of complaints in the year under review.

7.1 COMPLAINT MANGEMENT PROCESS

The standard guidelines for the management of all complaints received by the Commission are contained in relevant sections of NHRC Standing Order and Rules of Procedure (STORP) adopted by the Governing Council of the Commission in 2013. All complaints received by the Commission are subjected to the Rules of Admissibility Test to ascertain their admissibility. The admissible complaints are assigned to investigation officers for further investigation and treatment for appropriate redress.
7.2 RECEIPT OF COMPLAINTS 2016

In the year under review, the Commission received One Million and Ninety Nine Thousand, Nine Hundred and Nineteen (1,099,919) complaints. The number of complaints received within the year was increased tremendously compared with the yearly complaints received in the Commission since its inception. The increased number of complaints received may be attributed to the following:

- Increased number of field offices of the Commission located across various parts of the country.
- Public Inquiry complaints over oil spillage in South-South Nigeria, resulting from activities of oil companies.
- Increased awareness and human rights creation

Notably, the project highlighted above made the Commission more visible and elicited various complaints. The Oil Spillage project elicited over five hundred groups and community complaints.

All complaints received by the Commission were subjected to the Admissibility Test to ascertain that they contain required elements of human rights abuses/violations. In 2016, a total number of One Million, Four Hundred and Thirty (1,000,430) complaints received by the Commission were admissible while Ninety Nine Thousand, Four Hundred and Eighty Nine (99,489) complaints were inadmissible.

The breakdown of the number of complaints received in the year under review and their Admissibility Status is reflected in the table below:

The graph above indicates an upward trend in the number of complaints received in the year under review in comparison with 2015.

In 2015, the Commission received a total number of Four Hundred and Thirty Three Thousand, Eight hundred and Sixty Five (433,865) complaints while a total number of One Million and Ninety Nine Thousand, Nine Hundred and Nineteen (1,099,919) complaints were received in 2016. However, in both 2015 and 2016 the level of admissible complaints was much higher than the Inadmissible ones. This indicates that the public is much more aware of the type of complaints to bring to the Commission.

A total number of One Million, Four Hundred and Thirty (1,000,430) complaints representing 91% of total complaints received in the year under review were admissible while only Ninety Nine Thousand, Four Hundred and Eighty Nine (99,489) complaints representing 9% of the total complaints were inadmissible.
7.3 COMPLAINTS STATUS 2016

In the year under review, the Commission investigated and concluded a total number of Four hundred and Eighty Nine Thousand, Two Hundred and Nineteen complaints out of a total number of One Million and Four Hundred and Thirty (1,000,430) admissible complaints that passed admissibility test as spelt out in the Standing Order and Rules of Procedure of the National Human Rights Commission of Nigeria. A total of Five Hundred and Eleven Thousand, Two Hundred and Eleven complaints were pending. The bulk of pending complaints in the year 2016 were complaints received by the Panel of Inquiry over Oil Spillage Resulting from Activities of Oil Companies in the South-South Nigeria. The public inquiry was set up by the Commission to consider all complaints received on Oil Spillage and similar activities causing pollution of the environment and affecting other human rights. The alleged violators in the complaint (affected oil companies) went to court to challenge the powers of the Commission to embark on the investigation. Therefore, the complaints have been pending awaiting determination of the courts.

This could be attributed to the understanding of the mandate and powers of the Commission by the populace.

7.6: TREATMENT OF COMPLAINTS 1996 - 2016

The Commission was established to create an enabling environment for the promotion, protection and extra judicial recognition and enforcement of human rights in Nigeria. It is against this background that the victims of human rights violations/abuses lodge complaints to the Commission in order to seek redress/remedy. The Commission has administered, treated and concluded a total number of One Million, Four Hundred and Thirty One Thousand, Three Hundred and Ninety Two (1,431,392) complaints at different times over the period of years from 1996 to 2016.
However, Five Hundred and Forty Seven Thousand, Five Hundred and Forty One complaints were not completed within the year they were reported but were at different stages of investigation thus the pending complaints were carried over to the subsequent year for conclusion. The treatment of complaints from 1996 to 2016 is as shown in table 7.6.1 below.

The table above shows the summary of complaints in the Commission from 1996 to 2016.

7.8 TREND OF COMPLAINTS 1996 - 2016

The trend of complaints in the Commission has not been steady on either upward or downward direction. There has been fluctuation in the receipt of complaints by the Commission over the years.

In 1996, the Commission received a total number of Forty One (41) complaints. Between 1996 and 2000, there was an upward trend in the number of complaints received by the Commission. In 2001 there was a drop in the number of complaints received by the Commission. However, since 2009 till date, there has been an upsurge in the number of complaints received by the Commission as indicated in the table below.

In 2016, the Commission received One Million and Ninety Nine Thousand, Nine Hundred and Nineteen (1,099,919) complaints. This may be attributed to a number of factors which include the following:

- Increased visibility of the Commission and more accessibility of her free services by the public as a result of creation of many State offices across various parts of the country.
- Human rights awareness creation and enlightenment through both printed and electronic media amongst others.

The details of complaints received over the years have been expressed in percentage for ease of reference, understanding and comparative analysis.

The trend of complaints from 1996 to 2016 is illustrated in table 7.8.1.

CHAPTER EIGHT
NHRC/UNHCR INTERNALLY DISPLACED PERSONS MONITORING - PROJECT SUMMARY REPORT

8.0 INTRODUCTION
This Chapter contains a brief report on the IDPs Monitoring Project implemented by the Commission with support of the UNHCR. It covers activities in six States of Adamawa, Bauchi, Benue, Gombe, Taraba and Yobe held between July to December 2016.

Further to the UNHCR and NHRC Protection Monitoring Project established in 2015, there was a continuing need to ensure systems remain in place, to timely identify critical protection needs and to reduce risks and abuses as well as to ensure response and prevention of further abuses in the project States.

Both organizations therefore evaluated the project implementation so far and agreed on the need to improve on the project in 2016.

Protection monitoring aims to identify protection risks and abuses in communities in order to prioritize interventions and provide a timely response to the vulnerable populations affected. The response mechanisms adopted seek to reduce the violations faced by IDPs and affected communities and to provide UNHCR and partners with tools that can ensure a protective environment.

The community based protection component seeks to promote community participation and strengthen protection capacities within the communities through community mobilization, dialogue/assessments and capacity building. Protection monitoring will also help institute a system of ‘protection by presence,’ whereby information gap on risks or threats facing targeted IDPs, returnee-populations and vulnerable host communities will be addressed. Protection Monitoring and multi-sectoral assistance will equally reduce frequent occurrences of grave human rights violations against these populations and affected Communities.

The UNHCR/NHRC Protection Project therefore focused on two main pillars of intervention in 2016 viz:

To carryout Awareness-Raising, Sensitization and Training activities for relevant actors on human rights standards in management of IDPs.
To scale-up Community Level Protection Monitoring in the six Project States.

8.1 TRAINING FOR IDPs MONITORS

Monitors drawn from the six Project States were trained for the second phase of the Project in Makurdi, Benue State on the 8th and 9th July 2016. Over 45 monitors were trained. The number of Monitors was however increased to sixty in the course of the implementation of the project due to request from the field for more hands to cope with the magnitude of the assignment and the vast areas to be covered.

After the training, monitors were deployed to their various States of assignment and monitoring/reporting of protection issues commenced immediately.

Reports compiled by various monitors on weekly basis were harmonized by the State Supervisors and forwarded to the Report Task Team in NHRC Headquarters Abuja for a final harmonization and onward submission to UNHCR.

Below is a State by State summary analysis of reports received from all the six States between July and December 2016 as well as composition of the Protection Monitoring Team and areas covered by the project.

ADAMAWA STATE

The Adamawa Protection Monitoring team comprised of 9 Protection Monitors and a Supervisor covering a total of 12 Local Government Areas.
These LGAs include Yola North, Yola South, Mubi North, Mubi South, Fufore, Song, Michika, Madagali, Hong, Maiha, Gombi and Girei.

The IDPs monitors were trained and deployed to seven (7) Local Government Areas in Benue State namely: Guma, Agatu, Logo, Tarka, Ukum, Buruku and Makurdi. However due to the vast terrain of these Local Government Areas and the need to improve on information gathering on daily basis, the monitors were increased from 5 to 10.

GOMBE STATE:

In Gombe State, ten monitors inclusive of a supervisor were deployed to monitor, refer and report the protection issues observed in the IDP camps. The areas covered were Shongom, Akko, Gombe, Billiri, Kwami, Nafada, Yamaltu Debba, Funakaye and Kaltungo LGAs.

8.3 PROJECT ACHIEVEMENTS HIGHLIGHTED STATE BY STATE:

8.3.1 ADAMAWA

1. Timely and professional Protection Monitoring interventions.

2. Identifying IDPs in host communities, informal settlement and non-government camps.

3. Establishment of efficient referral mechanism with the DSS, IRC, NEMA, SEMA, Police, Red Cross, UNICEF, Ministry of Health, Ministry of Women Affairs among others.

Cases referred include SGBV, Child labor, health issues, security incidence, education and WASH.

4. Participation in vulnerability assessment with the UNHCR
5. Participation in Protection Sector Working Group (PSWG) meetings

6. Participation in distributions of essentials to IDPs/returnees

7. Raising awareness level about the Commission during sensitizations /courtesy calls and educating the public on the mandate of the Commission.

8. Establishment of 35 Protection Action Groups (PAG) within the areas of coverage.

8.3.2 BAUCHI STATE:

By virtue of the work carried out by the Monitors, the IDPs became aware of their rights. They also knew where and to whom complaints bordering on rights violation should be forwarded to. The presence and activities of the Monitors enhanced the State Government assistance to the IDPs. In Toro LGA, for instance, the State Government gave out pieces of farm lands to the IDPs to commence farming activities.

8.3.3 BENUE STATE:

A sense of belonging was created among the IDPs due to the frequent visit and reporting of their conditions by IDPs Monitors.

Even though inadequate, humanitarian assistance in form of relief materials and other vital services have been rendered to the IDPs to ameliorate their suffering.

Increased awareness of obligations and responsibilities of Government/Key Agencies in relation to the plights of IDPs.

Useful data has been collated and disseminated on IDPs situation. There is however need for improvement in data gathering and use of such collated data for programing in this area.
8.3.4 GOMBE STATE:

Awareness was created on various needs of different categories of persons within the IDPs population: the pregnant and breast feeding mothers, the sick, the out of school children, the elderly, Persons With Disabilities, the girl child, among others. Accordingly, humanitarian actors, relevant government agencies, CSOs, FBOs and other stakeholders are better informed on specific needs of these disaggregated groups.

8.3.5 TARABA STATE:

Following the strong presence of the IDPs monitors in Taraba, some NGOs keyed into the IDPs monitoring project. Notable amongst them is David Sabo Kente Foundation (DSK) which accepted to provide medical treatment for IDPs free of any financial charges. Based on a tip off, the monitors were able to intervene timely, by calling on NAPTIP who were able to contain a case of children who were to be kidnapped and used as sex workers. Formation of 10 CPAG (Community Protection Action Group) across the LGAs in the course of the exercise.

8.3.6 YOBE STATE:

Through prompt and efficient referrals, interventions were made on behalf of IDPs such as:

- Identification of protection issues and appropriate referrals.
- Where there were cases of detention/arbitrary arrests, the IDPs Monitors visited the detention centers and successfully negotiated with the officers for the release on bail of the detained IDPs.
- All Sexual and Gender Based Violence cases were appropriately referred and followed up accordingly.
- Thorough follow-up on all cases were carried out.

8.7 CHALLENGES
The following are the challenges faced during the course of the project:

- Reluctance of victims to open up and report SGBV cases.
- Justification of child labor by parents on cultural and economic grounds.
● Slow or no response to referrals by partners/agencies.
● Reluctance in assisting IDPs outside the camps (70% of assistance go to camps).
● High expectations by IDPs/returnees.
● Transportation/Communication difficulties: Some locations were not accessible with vehicles. Transportation difficulties were faced in various states particularly in suburbs or rural communities due to bad roads, inadequate number of vehicles and high cost of transportation among other reasons. Similarly communication gap created as a result of poor telecommunication system or lack of network coverage also disrupted scheduled appointments with the local people, thereby, hampering effective monitoring.
● Most IDPs and returnees were psychologically traumatized.
● Absence of a project office in some project locations such as Bauchi State was a major challenge to effective Supervision. There was difficulty in accessing venues for collation of reports and convening Monthly meetings.
● Some local leaders and IDPs expected financial/non-financial aid before giving information or responding to interviews.
● The duration of the entire project was rather short and not much could be achieved, especially with limited number of monitors covering 2 or more LGAs.
● The absence of convenient working tools, especially for the Supervisors, who had to type, edit, and send reports to the projects head office in Abuja was another challenge confronting effective discharge of responsibilities.
● Concentration of aid and humanitarian assistance to formal camps while seemingly ignoring IDPs in informal settlements was also a challenge.
● Inadequate intervention by State and Local Governments due to lack of funds or non-prioritization of IDP projects.
● The vast distance between one Local Government and another posed some challenge to the Supervisors in view of mobility.
● Non-Governmental Organizations do not seem to have fully embraced intervention in this area as core thereby leaving the burden to Government Agencies, who unfortunately, do not have the capacity to bear the burden alone. There is need to improve on current poor humanitarian response from State and Federal agencies on the plight of the IDPs.

- Unwillingness on the part of the IDPs to give to the monitors, vital information, that will ultimately alleviate their sufferings.
- Most IDPs suspicion that the entire monitoring project may be fraudulent, owing to its monotonous nature and the fact that immediate assistance from the monitors appears not to be in sight.
- Non recognition of informal IDPs settlements by Government in some States compounds the sufferings of the IDPs in such settlements. Some of these concerns include non-provision of security personnel, absence or inadequate humanitarian assistance, inadequate social welfare facilities among others.
- Alleged pockets of reports were made on the diversion of relief materials by Government Officials.
- Security challenges.
- Lack of quick response from partners whenever a case is referred to them by Monitors.
- Paucity of number of monitors vis-a -viz the vast areas covered.
- Slow or lack of cooperation among protection agencies at the state levels
- Discrimination in the area of relief materials and leadership positions in the camp existed between IDPs and returnees from neighboring countries to the Camps.
- Sexual harassment from security personnel in Madagali, Adamawa State especially in Gulak and Shuwa.
- Drought in Madagali, Adamawa State.
8.8 RECOMMENDATIONS

The following are key recommendations which should improve the IDPs Protection Monitoring Project. They include:

- Partners/Agencies should be prompt in responding to referrals
- Empowerment programs should be introduced such as agricultural support and skill acquisition for the IDPs and returnees so that they can meet their basic needs. Grants or loans could also be useful to enable them commence small scale businesses.
- The Monitors should work closely with communities to identify appropriate services in ensuring the safety and security of women and girls in the camps/ settlement and the host communities-to reduce their vulnerability to sexual molestation.
- The project should enhance advocacy mechanisms with authorities and partners on key protection issues and concerns of vulnerable groups.
- There is need for engagement with communities to improve social cohesion and enhance peaceful co-existence between IDPs and host communities.
- The donor and implementing partners of the project should support the strengthening of Protection Action Groups established to prevent and respond to Human Rights violations and address communal/community issues.
- The project partners should improve on the successes recorded and ensure their sustainability.
- Monitors should be given periodic training on Sexual and Gender Based Violence, Psychosocial Support, Trafficking in Persons, Report writing and related issues in management of IDPs.
• There is need to build an efficient feedback mechanism between the IDPs and monitors in order to ensure timely intervention on the issues and concerns raised.

• There is need for the project to develop a better and stronger frame work through which government agencies and other players in the field of IDPs protection can be engaged.

• There is need for UNHCR and the project partners to carry out extensive advocacy directed towards cooperate organizations, philanthropists and relevant NGOs to elicit their interest/ support for in reducing the plight of the IDPs. This will also lessen the burden on the Government.

• Provision of adequate infrastructure at the Daudu Shelter Project, Benue State.

• While appreciating Governments efforts at curbing incessant attacks that lead to displacement, the Government is urged to further intensify efforts in combating the activities of terror groups which cause displacement.

• Profiling of IDPs should be carried out for the purposes of identification rationing and distribution of relief materials, security considerations among others.

• Due to the trauma experienced by the IDPs, there is need for them to constantly undergo counseling and other forms of psychosocial therapy.

• There is need for acceptance/peaceful coexistence between IDPs and host communities. Traditional rulers or Community leaders hosting IDPs have a role to play in actualizing this.

• Due to the experiences encountered on the field (some of them traumatizing)it is therefore, recommended that monitors be given some form of counseling and psychosocial capacity building in order to prepare them for the task ahead.

• It is recommended that the IDPs monitoring project be extended beyond 2016. This is because the protection issues facing IDPs are yet to be abated.
